Write Louisiana Senators Also, for 'Wet' Millwood

(Editorial)

Citizens' individual letters to the senators and congressman will go a long way toward helping the Southwest Arkansas Water District win its fight for a "wet" Millwood dam.

But since Wednesday's editorial The Star's editor has learned that Louisiana's senators also want to hear from the local public. So the complete list of persons to write in behalf of a "wet" Millwood is printed below:

Louisiana senators —
Senator Allen J. Ellender
Senator Russell Long Arkansas senators —
John L. McClellan
J. W. Fulbright
Arkansas congressman —
Oren Harris, M. C.

Letters to the senators should be addressed to them at: Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

The address of the congressman is: House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

This week-end would be an excellent time to write all of them. Your federal office-holders know where the various newspapers stand on the Millwood dam question — but what they want to know is where you stand personally... and that requires a letter from you.

Dead Girl Found, Body Unidentified

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The mystery body found under a rock pile by police here baffled them for days. A little girl five people identified as the victim of an apparent murder was found alive Saturday, and a murder charge against her father was dropped.

At left the body unidentified. Three-year-old Shirley Dicus, the supposed murder victim, is located in Neosho, Mo., with her father Lloyd A. Dicus, a convicted bigamist. Living with them is a woman, police said was his wife.

Shirley's mother, Mrs. Gretta Cornish, 20, and a 1-year-old daughter, Mozelle, turned up in Neosho, La. Mrs. Cornish, formerly Dicus' common-law wife, had been unaccounted for since early in December. Police and her mother had expressed fear that she and the baby had met their deaths.

The developments left police almost back where they started when the body of a small girl was found in a woods on the edge of the city Saturday.

Sheriff Arvid Owsley said clothing on the dead child was identical to that worn by Shirley. A coroner Hugh H. Owens said a girl suffered head, back and arm injuries that "could have led to her death."

The turn of events focused attention on the past of the wayward Dicus, said by police in Abbeville, Tex., to have been married six times to five women.

The Texas Bureau of Public Safety said Dicus served nearly three years for bigamy and 18 months for forgery in state prisons. He was booked on a charge of check forgery in Kansas City after being brought here from Neosho, 150 miles south.

Oscar J. Luzzza, Baton Rouge police chief, said Mrs. Cornish told him she passed more than 50 checks with Dicus on a trip from Los Angeles to Oklahoma by late last year. She said she left Dicus Dec. 10.

In Neosho Dicus was operating a service station and living with Mrs. Betty Boyd Howard. She said she married Dicus under the name Howard in February. She was fined on a bigamy charge on the ground that she has not divorced her first husband, O. C. Boyd, of Commerce, Okla.

Dicus identified another of his former wives as Mrs. Billie Dicus Gainesville, Tex. He said he had daughter by her, now 6 years old, named Shirley Ann.

What was believed until today to have been the name of the child whose body was found under the rocks. The girl living with Dicus is Mrs. Howard in Neosho is Shirley June, born to Dicus by Mrs. Cornish.

Mrs. Eddie S. Gilliland of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Cornish's mother, indicated she would seek to gain custody of Shirley June and of S. Cornish's baby daughter Monday.

Symington Is Dark Horse of the Democrats

BY RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Sen. Stuart Symington was regarded by some of his fellow Democrats today as the potential presidential candidate with the best chance of emerging unhurt from pre-convention gouging.

The Missouri Democrat has long been viewed as a possible dark horse candidate for the nomination in case of a convention deadlock. And Democrats have felt that a deadlock has become more likely because of Adlai E. Stevenson's early season defeats by Sen. Estes Kefauver.

There were these developments in the Stevenson-Kefauver battle: 1. Stevenson, campaigning in Northern California, said at San Francisco that while he was confident of winning the June 5 California primary, he did not think a victory was "necessarily decisive" in his race for the Democratic nomination. He pointed out that Kefauver won the primary in 1952 but lost the nomination.

Stevenson also noted that "some 15 members of Sen. Kefauver's 1952 delegation" from California in the Democratic convention are this year supporting Stevenson.

2. Kefauver, campaigning at Albuquerque, N.M., said he considered the California primary, where a high 60-delegate state is at stake, highly important because it will be "the last expression of the people's will" before the August Democratic convention.

He also said that he lost his convention battle in 1952 after leading on the first ballot "because I handled my campaign badly" at the session. He said Speaker Sam Rayburn, who presided at the convention, was against him then, but "I hope he will be for me in 1956."

3. Kefauver supporters in Illinois, Stevenson's home state, revealed plans for a "scrub" Stevenson meeting Monday. The meeting at Springfield, Ill., will compete with a Democratic rally in the same city on the same day for Stevenson.

Symington was tagged this week by Missouri Democrats to be a favorite son candidate for the Democratic nomination. This decision was reported to have been cleared with a half-vote Missouri delegate named Harry S. Truman.

Democrats watching Symington have suggested that his position is comparable to Stevenson's in 1952. Since he has declared himself not a candidate, he presumably is making no enemies among those who are or may be and can suffer no damage in primaries. He is also being viewed as a candidate who could bridge the chasm between Northern and Southern Democrats.

On the other hand, it has also been suggested that Symington has a handicap that Stevenson had in 1952 in that he is not a commanding national figure comparable to President Eisenhower.

S. A. Springs, 76, Succumbs at His Home Near Hope

B. A. Springs, aged 76, a resident of Hempstead since 1918, died yesterday. He lived on Hope Route Three.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ollie J. Springs, two sons, Ed of Hot Springs and Charles of Magnolia, a daughter, Mrs. Jess Lamb of Mobile, Ala.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at St. Paul Church of Ozan.

Proves Timber Is Profitable

The campaign by a Southwest Arkansas group to change Army Engineers' construction plans for Millwood Dam in Little River advanced on two fronts yesterday. In Washington, the engineers' Board of Harbors and Rivers announced that it would hear opponents of the planned "dry" dam at the Millwood site April 25 in the capital city.

At Magnolia, it was announced that delegates from six Arkansas cities would meet in Shreveport, La., Tuesday with advocates of a "wet" dam.

A "wet" dam is one which forms a reservoir. In contrast, the gates of a "dry" dam are left open to allow the water to follow its natural course. A "dry" dam is used to make way for fast growing pines.

This was announced in Hope late today, following a telephone conversation with Marvin Watson, president of the Northeast Texas Water District.

Mr. Watson told chamber of commerce officials here that the Louisiana senators had requested carbon copies of all letters going to the Arkansas delegation in Washington from several southwestern Arkansas counties favoring a wet Millwood.

Mr. Watson was quoted as saying that the Louisiana senators had received some letters from upstream interests who desire six smaller dams, and urged letters from interested citizens favoring a wet Millwood.

Mr. Watson said it was the desire of the Louisiana senators to make this information public.

2 Firms Reply to Rate Hike Invitation

LITTLE ROCK (Special) — Two gas companies have replied to Public Service Commission Attorney John R. Thompson's request that they review their rates for industrial users, with an eye to upward adjustment if necessary to 17 1/2 cents per MCF.

The Arkansas-Missouri Power Co., advised Attorney Thompson that the lowest contract rate on file in its office now is 40 cents per MCF and the average rate charged is 55.9 cents.

But the Fort Smith Gas Co., on behalf of which the PSC attorney's letter obviously was written, answered that the gas it is delivering at between 15 and 16 cents for industrial use is costing it 20 cents per MCF.

Less than a year ago, in May 1955, the Public Service Commission approved a new rate schedule for Fort Smith Gas in which the 15-cent rate was incorporated. Since then, however, Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., has received Commission approval of the 17 1/2-cent rate as a minimum for industrial users, a fact which was noted in Attorney Thompson's letter to the companies.

The Ark-La rate increase has been announced.

Congress Quits for Easter — Big Issues Ahead

BY WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was off on a 10-day Easter holiday today.

It had little major legislation to show for three months of sessions this year and plenty to do when it returns April 9.

Ahead are such potentially explosive election-year issues as farm social security, foreign aid, education, highway, housing and possibly civil rights and tax reduction legislation.

This recess is the first and probably will be the last long holiday for the legislators, most of whom are anxious to get home early in the summer for political campaigning.

Most of the legislating since the session started Jan. 3 has taken place in the House. The Senate, while in session longer, has spent much of its time on a limited number of subjects.

It spent a month debating a bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal controls, only to have the measure vetoed by President Eisenhower.

Benito's Family Seek His Body

ROME (AP) — Benito Mussolini's family says it is preparing to sue the Italian government to demand the body of the Fascist dictator, hidden for 11 years in a secret grave.

Il Duce's youngest son, Romano Mussolini, said in an interview with the Rome newspaper Il Tempo today that the suit would be filed by his mother, Dona Rachele Mussolini, "unless the government returns the body soon."

Mussolini's burial place has been one of Italy's best kept secrets to keep it from becoming a shrine for diehard Fascists.

The bullet-riddled body was hidden after it was cut down in April, 1945, from a firing station on the outskirts of Milan. Partisans hung Il Duce and his mistress, Claretta Petacci, by their heels after they were shot, trying to slip out of Italy.

Claretta's body was reburied in Rome March 16 after being moved from a hidden grave near Milan.

James Dowdell, 57, Detroit, driver of the truck, said 12 to 15 carloads of farmers stopped the truck near Brighton, opened the spigots and poured the milk on the ground, then let the air out of his tires and escaped.

Dowdell, who wasn't harmed, said "it happened so quick I didn't have a chance to be scared."

He said he pulled his truck across the highway, hoping to attract attention when the men began milking about it. He said a Brighton policeman came out of a restaurant, saw what was happening and went back to the restaurant to call state police.

The picketing by dairy farmers from eastern Michigan, who have held many mass meetings in recent months and who claim they aren't being paid enough to make ends meet, slowly was choking off the supply of raw milk into Detroit, the nation's fifth largest city.

Dairy Farmers Dump 3,500 Gallons of Milk

DETROIT, (UP) — A roadside dairy farmers stopped a milk transport early today and poured 3,500 gallons of raw milk on a busy highway near here in protest of their rebellion against prices paid them for their milk by Detroit dairies.

James Dowdell, 57, Detroit, driver of the truck, said 12 to 15 carloads of farmers stopped the truck near Brighton, opened the spigots and poured the milk on the ground, then let the air out of his tires and escaped.

Dowdell, who wasn't harmed, said "it happened so quick I didn't have a chance to be scared."

sign was being, "Holly Spring." At another corner, there was the smell of a fresh, fragrant perfume. It smelled like whole flowers, like open fields, or perhaps like a blossoming with dew in the forest. That was coming from a store, and making people stop and sniff and smile. Even a book store was all brightened up with "Easter eggs," made of the same colored paper you use at Christmas. And somebody had put a bright yellow diffuser in the window of a book that someone you seldom associate with dandelions. "The Decline of the West," it gave old D.C. a real rakish look. It turned down a cross street and around a sidewalk completely blocked with boxes of azaleas. It looked like a purple bonfire. They were in front of a flower store, and an attendant was taking them inside. I asked him if he expected to sell all of them before Sunday. "Brother," he said, panting a little, "I just wish I had double the many."

I was interested but puzzled as to whether there is a vogue in hats this year. Some are large, wide and look like upside-down flower bowls. The girls say they make you look thin. Then there are some jaunty little confections, neat and close-fitting, with a posy or two. Still others made me think of flying saucers. It's a little confusing.

The best surprise of all was—guess a bank. This bank is in a new building which is beautiful even without any Easter trimmings. It is all glass and shining aluminum, and it has a wonderful feeling of light and air and gracefulness.

Right now, it is luxuriating in tall Hawaiian trees, ferns, yellow crocuses, hydrangeas and hyacinths. The sign says they came from Hawaii, California and Florida, and why not? Besides, the bloomers are gigantic and look like giant's feet. The main shell is as shiny as stainless steel. Small brass gears look more like decorations than machinery. It is lovely as a piece of costume jewelry. This was stopping more people than any of the stores. And no wonder. Happy Easter!

of another month debating the farm bill. It passed a measure which a Senate-House committee is rewriting. There have been GOP predictions that it too will draw a veto.

The House had acted last year on both farm and natural gas legislation. Another week of the Senate's time was consumed by discussion of proposed changes in the electoral college system, after which the whole issue was sent back to committee for more study.

The House, meanwhile, passed six annual appropriation bills, one of which has cleared the Senate, and an assortment of miscellaneous measures, some of which still require Senate action.

Proclamation

J. H. M. (Olie) Olsen, Mayor of the City of Hope, Arkansas, do hereby declare and "Proclaim Tuesday, April 3, 1956 as "Millwood Day."

All citizens of Hope and Hempstead County who can possibly do so are urged to observe this special day by going to Shreveport in a body for the purpose of attending a breakfast to be given at 7:30 a. m., April 3, 1956, at the Washington-Yorke Hotel at which our Congressman will be present, and to also attend a luncheon on the same day at which representatives of the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers will speak.

These two meetings are vital to the future of our area, and will be held in connection with the annual convention of the Red River Valley Association. What happens in Shreveport on April 3, 1956, may affect the outcome of the Millwood Dam project.

I respectfully request that all who can attend these important meetings to call Mr. B. N. Holt at the Hope Chamber of Commerce as soon as possible so proper arrangements may be made for all as to transportation and other factors involved.

A number of our leading citizens have been carrying on this fight at great sacrifice of time and money. Now is a chance for every citizen of Hope and Hempstead County to assist in this great project.

The members of congress, and the Army Engineers, will not deny us water rights for this area if we let them know how we feel about this matter. H. H. Olsen.

LAW OUT OF DATE

CHICAGO. (UPI)—Thirteen men charged with shooting dice in a truck won freedom yesterday because the city gambling law wasn't up to date.

They were charged with being inmates or keepers of a gambling house but their attorney pointed out that the 1874 anti-gambling law defines a gambling house as "any building, booth, yard, garden, boat or float." It didn't say anything about trucks, he said.

The judge agreed and dismissed the charge.

providing federal loans and credit to areas hit by disasters, a bill continuing the federal polio vaccination program, and a bill revising the formula for taxation of insurance companies.

Tentatively billed as the first major measure when Congress convenes is the controversial farm bill. The basic issue here is whether there shall be high rigid price supports for farm products, as favored by most Democrats, or flexible supports as advocated by the administration. Several other issues are likely to keep the farm fight flaring.

been taken to the courts by several of the company's industrial customers.

Industrial rate schedules on file with the PSC indicate that one other company, Arkansas Western Gas, might be interested in filing for rate increases. Its minimum for industrial users is 15 cents at Clarksville and 16 cents at Fayetteville, Harrison and in the coal mining area.

Copies of its contracts on file with the PSC indicate, however, that rates of 20 cents or more prevail. Only one contract, entered into September 1, 1950, with the University of Arkansas, carries a 15-cent rate. Thompson said he had been in verbal contact with Arkansas Western and it was preparing to review its industrial tariffs, as requested.

Thompson emphasized that the request for a rate review by the companies was a staff and not a Commission action. Any upward revisions could be accomplished only by formal application to the Commission, hearings and a Commission order, he pointed out.

His primary interest, he added, was insuring an adequate supply of gas at a fair rate for Arkansas' "biscuit-cookers," the housewives.

Fort Smith Gas Co., is owned by W. R. Stephens whose Little Rock investment company purchased 51 per cent of Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co.'s outstanding common stock in 1954. Almost all the gas supplied Fort Smith Gas is purchased from Stephens Production Co., under a 20-year contract entered into in 1954. Stephens also owns the Stephens Production Co.

Thompson, who signed the letter to the gas companies asking them to review their industrial rates as "Attorney for the Staff" of the Public Service Commission, served as a member of the Commission during the administration of former Governor Sidney McMath. Later he was chief assistant to Attorney General Tom Gentry and attorney for the Arkansas State Electric Co-operative Association, Inc., before returning to the Public Service Commission, as its attorney, after Governor Faubus took office.

to back water only in case of flood.

In announcing the April 25 hearing, the board said it was called primarily to allow "wet" dam supporters to present their case for a change in the construction plans. While the engineers already have planned the "dry" facility, the board must approve all plans before they are submitted to Congress.

John Conner, manager of the Magnolia Chamber of Commerce, said delegations from Magnolia, Stamps, Waldo, Hope, Texarkana and Bradley will be represented at the Shreveport conference. In addition, said Conner, several Louisiana congressmen are expected to attend.

All of the six Arkansas cities have officially endorsed the construction of a "wet" dam at Millwood which is eight miles west of Ashdown.

They contend the reservoir is needed to provide water for municipal, industrial and agricultural uses in the area.

Proponents of the "dry" dam argue that a reservoir would inundate a vast area of valuable farm land.

The dispute has divided the Little River Basin, which extends into Oklahoma, into two bitterly opposing factions.

At a recent meeting in Oklahoma, advocates of the "dry" dam threatened to boycott businessmen in Texarkana because that city is on the other side.

spring of 1954, and in effect under bond since June of that year although the PSC in November 1954 rejected the application. The company's appeal is pending in the state Supreme Court.

During 1955, $4,274,003 of the gross receipts were due to the higher rates. This is the sum, from last year's revenues, that would be subject to refund to customers if the Supreme Court should rule against AP&L. However, less than half of it would come back directly from the company. Federal and state income taxes, paid on the basis of the earnings under the new rates, would be recomputed, and the national and state governments would have to refund more than would be taken from the company's surplus.

Most Wanted Man Seized at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Nick George Montos, the only fugitive to make the FBI's "10 most wanted" list twice was captured by FBI agents in a suburban motel today.

Despite an arsenal of weapons including a sub-machinegun, the 38-year-old Montos and a fellow fugitive, Robert Lloyd Jones, 30, surrendered meekly after agents fired tear gas bombs into their motel room. Each had more than $2,000 in cash.

the Memphis FBI office, Montos was one of the FBI's top burglars and safe crackers. Jones, a convicted murderer, was serving a life sentence at the Mississippi State Penitentiary. Montos escaped last Jan. 23. Jones was convicted of the murder of a fellow prisoner at the same prison. Piper said he was dunned at the first vacancy. Montos first was placed on FBI's "most wanted" list on 8, 1952. He was captured on 23, 1954. After his escape from Mississippi prison, Montos again added to the list on 10, 1954.

WATER SUPPLY is one of the most vital services performed by the local unit of the Army Reserve Engineers. You can perform a vital service for yourself by joining the Army Reserve Engineers.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 18½ have a military obligation to their country. The simplest way to fulfill this responsibility is by joining your local Army Reserve Unit today. You finish your high school education at home, then go on active duty the first week in July . . . serving only six short, exciting months and return home by Christmas. Your active duty obligation is behind you and you are ready to resume your full-time civilian life.

This is the opportunity you've been looking for—act today. Secure complete information under no obligation from . . .

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Resurrection of Jesus in a very real sense is the cornerstone of Christianity.

Some would question this and say that the foundation of Christianity is in the life and teaching of Jesus. Probably there are many who seek sincerely to follow the teaching and example of Jesus but who for various reasons, doubt the story of His Resurrection.

It is true that without the earthly life and teaching of Jesus there would have been no Christianity. But, nevertheless, the Resurrection is the historic cornerstone. Without the conviction that Jesus has risen, and that they had received His Commission, the little band of Disciples would have reverted into a broken, disillusioned, and disheartened group.

Peter typified this disillusionment when he said he was going back to his fishing nets (John 21:3) and the two Disciples on the way to Emmaus (Luke 24:21) spoke in deep sadness of a trust that had failed.

Then, the little group of lowly men, who had left all to follow Jesus, were not only roused from their despair but they were transformed into men visited with her for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Prather with daughter, Mary Della will spend Easter with Mrs. Prather's mother, Mrs. Steve Carrigan Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Yontz and daughters of Dallas will spend Easter with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carlton on East 3rd street.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Rettig and Miss Jo Beth Rettig and Luther Holloman spent Wednesday at the races in Hot Springs.

The Angry Hills

Chapter XXIX

Lisa sat at the far end of the table and looked over at the four pairs of grim eyes fixed on her. The candle on the center of the table cast a dancing shadow on the bare walls of the room.

Three of the men she had known since childhood. Only the strange, stony Dr. Harry Thackeray was new to her.

"It was impossible to stop him," she cried.

Papa-Panos, the priest, his of vision and power. It was upon their faith in the Resurrection that Christianity was built. And Saint Paul, great among the builders, not only centered his faith in Resurrection but believed that he had actually seen his Risen Lord (I Corinthians 15:8).

The foundation in the life and teaching of Jesus, and the Gospel of God's grace that he declared were still there, for it was this that the Apostles passed on to the world. But it was the conviction that their Lord and Master was living that made them living witnesses in a great and continued mission. Without that faith the stonies of early association with the Master, wonderful as they are in the New Testament records, would have been dreams of the past, forgotten themselves. For the records would never have been written.

The late J. Agar Beet, a British churchman, wrote a very large book to prove that "the Resurrection of Jesus was the best attested fact of history."

I knew the book well, for it was on my college curriculum; but I always felt that from a purely historical standpoint the argument was overstated. Historical attestation is a precarious thing.

The fact of Christianity is, as Beet contended, an historical argument for the Resurrection; but the ultimate evidence and basis for faith is spiritual.

To me the most moving and convincing story of the Resurrection is that in Luke 24, of the two disciples on the way to Emmaus. The stories of the Tomb are of the sort around which legends easily accrue. I do not question the evidence of those who saw the opened Tomb; but I find profound, convincing evidence in the simple, direct, unadorned narrative, wholly actual in its implications, of the two who undoubtedly saw and conversed with their Risen Lord who "opened to them the Scriptures."

beard now gray . . . Huge, moon-faced Michalis, the union organizer, who wore the scowl of an angry lion . . . Gentle, scholarly Thanasiss, the professor at the university . . .

Michalis' hamlike fist pounded on the table and the candle bounced. "Why didn't you follow him?" he roared.

Lisa did not answer. "Lisa," Dr. Thackeray said, "you were under orders to kill him in the event something like this happened. Do you realize the consequences if he falls into German hands?"

Her mouth was dry. She closed her eyes and licked her parched lips. "I do not hide that I love him!"

Papa-Panos, the priest, had sat listening quietly. He stroked the end of his beard. At last he spoke in his high-pitched voice that never failed to carry authority. "Thanasiss — Michalis — Dr. Thackeray — I seriously wonder if all of us are not wrong about Morrison. Would it not be wise that we all just forget about him?"

"Do not raise your voice to me, Michalis. You are not speaking in a union hall. Suppose Morrison does escape . . . Have any of you thought what would happen then? It means we will be compelled to act on their information. And, gentlemen, we cannot expect the Germans to sit idly by. They will retaliate in triple measure."

"Bah," Michalis grumbled. He leaned over the table and pointed his finger almost into Papa-Panos' beard. "Are we receiving milk and honey from the Germans now? Only yesterday the Nazi butchers massacred a hundred civilians in Crete."

Thanasiss interrupted. "As much as I love and respect you, Father, I must agree with Michalis. Passive resistance has proved fruitless. The cities and the hills are angry and our people will fight."

"And do you agree with them, Dr. Thackeray?"

The bony-faced man remained silent for many moments. "I do not choose sides," he finally said. "We know that the British will establish a mission here when they receive the Stergiou list. It means that we must organize and act on information about arms shipments, train schedules, submarines. . . . It means the British will shop in arms to help us carry out missions. We know, too, that the Germans will destroy villages and cities and kill our citizens for every act we commit against them. What is our gain? If we become strong — if we can place enough pressure on the Germans, they will be forced to keep their troops here and will not be able to release them for fighting on the main fronts. Neither you nor I can stop the Greek people from striking back. Truly, Papa-Panos, the hills are angry."

The priest sighed. He knew these men spoke the truth. Greece was destined for a blood bath that would make all the ancient tragedies trivial by comparison. "Very well, we will spare no expense in finding the American and getting him out of the country."

Then the four of them turned to Lisa. Her lips were white. She arose slowly and spoke. "Before you make a decision, there is more I must tell you now."

In slow, deliberate words, Lisa unfolded her story beginning with the day that the Gestapo had picked her up and taken her to Konrad Heiler. The four men looked shocked. Then she told of the weeks of terror and ended her story at the point where Morrison had dashed from the apartment at Satavriandou 125.

She asked no mercy. The men sat in horrified silence. Lisa walked straight and proud to the door. "I shall wait in the next room," she said.

Through the paper-thin walls she heard Michalis pound his fist on the table. "Lisa Kyriakides is a traitor!"

Thanasiss shook his head in disbelief. His studious appearance belied the fact that he was one of the most daring men in the movement. "Lisa — I can't believe it. I have known her since she was one of the most daring men in the movement. 'Lisa — I can't believe it. I have known her since she was a girl of 18. She was a student of mine.'"

"I too have known her and her family for many years," Michalis said. "We cannot let sentimentality rule us." He had dealt to long with too many of those who played both sides.

"It seems we have no choice," Thanasiss said. "But I will not be the man to pull the trigger."

Thackeray said nothing. This was not his matter. "If she was a traitor would she have told us her story?" Papa-Panos said. "Hasn't this woman had enough sorrow to bear? Surely Michalis you must realize that if she had treason in her heart she could have the wealth of Athens at her feet. You seem to forget she only did this to protect the lives of her two sons."

"I am the father of a son also," Michalis said. "I speak to you as a man who loves him as I love life itself. I would rather see him in his grave than see his father become a collaborator."

"Yes Michalis," Papa-Panos answered. "Perhaps you would see your son in his grave. But tell me something would you not?" (To Be Continued)

Stalin Victims Now Being Rehabilitated

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Hungarian Communist chief, Matyas Rakosi, revealed today the victims of Hungary's most sensational purge trial of the Stalin era are now being "rehabilitated"—declared innocent.

He said the trial was based on faked evidence.

Rakosi announced Laszlo Rajk the former foreign minister hanged in 1949 as a Titoist and traitor, was convicted on the basis of "provocative accusations," produced by a former Hungarian secret police chief who himself has since been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Rajk thus was declared guiltless, along with his seven codefendants. Four were executed and three sentenced to prison. The three are to be released.

Rakosi made his announcement in a speech in the town of Eger. It was published today in the Hungarian party newspaper, Szabad Nep, and excerpts were broadcast by the Budapest radio.

This reversal was accompanied by Rakosi's statement that a number of Hungarian Social Democrats, also convicted on trumped-up evidence, are being released.

Rajk is the second top Hungarian Communist to be restored to a position of respect in Red ranks since the 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow in February, where the terror reign of Stalin himself was Communist regime in Hungary in 1919. He was believed executed in Russia on Stalin's orders in the 1930's. Kuhn's name was cleared during the Moscow Congress.

NEW TWIST

EAST PATERSON, N.J. (UP)—Edmund Neal, charged with driving through a parking lot to avoid a traffic light, told the judge yesterday that he was only trying to beat his son to an ice cream store. "I was afraid it would spoil his appetite," Neal said.

The judge dismissed the charge.

DOROTHY DIX

Drunken Mother-in-Law Too Much for This Wife

Dear Miss Dix: I hope you can help me for I'm at my wit's end. I just don't know how long I can go on this way. Larry and I have been married six years and have always had one member of another of his family staying with us. We were alone just six months — the happiest six months of my life.

At present it's my mother-in-law and her youngest daughter, a teenager with a good job. Mother-in-law has made so much trouble in the homes of her other sons and daughters (she has six) that we are now the only ones to make her welcome. She is constantly moving out of our home and then returning. Besides her trouble-making proclivities, she is a heavy drinker and a very untidy person.

I love my home but cannot keep it nice with cigarettes left all over the furniture, ashes dropped on the carpets, clothes strewn in every room in the house. She's not an old woman by any means, being in her early fifties. There's no consideration for us, or appreciation that we let her live here. She says we have to take care of her, that's that.

My husband agrees with me that his mother is a problem and may even need psychiatric treatment. That, however, we know she'll never agree to. Is this problem insoluble or can you suggest anything?

MILDRED
Answer: When a relative won't make any adjustment to the family circle around her, the best is for her to live alone. It would be better for the six children to join forces and establish Mom in her own home. A perfect solution, of course, would be to get her sufficiently interested to get a job. Beside furnishing financial aid it would take up much of the time she now spends at bars.

Try Family Conference.

Since your husband and all his brothers and sisters agree that Mo-

KNIFE THROWER

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Mrs. Geraldine Evans, 21, complained in district court yesterday that her husband, an amateur knife thrower, made her stand against a wall while he threw knives around her.

there is a problem, one of them must have a workable idea for her welfare. Ask for a family conference on the subject. Read Dorothy Dix's book, "What Parents Grow Old" (Public Affairs Pamphlets, 25 cents). Some of the ideas suggested therein may be your mother-in-law's. Make up your mind, however, that domestic peace cannot exist with a deliberately disturbing person in the household.

Dear Miss Dix: Bob and I have been dear friends for three years and he is now becoming . . . with marriage being dissolved. Although he's a clean-cut, good-looking chap, his aim is to go against my expectations. He wants to own a gas station.

I am a college student and plan to get my doctorate. I've always wanted a husband with a college education or technical training. I've felt that mental compatibility is important. Should I leave him or continue to look for my "dream," who might lack the qualities that make Bob so likable?

Answer: Believing, as I do, that love is a most important ingredient of marriage, I don't advise accepting Bob at this time. Clearly you don't love him. You might chase a dream a long time before it materializes, but with your mind so set on "mental achievement," you'd better keep looking. Perhaps in the future Bob's sterling qualities will convince you that owning a gas station isn't a bad life after all.

Costa Favored Over Frenchman

NEW YORK (AP) — France's Cherif Hamia hopes to benefit from stablemate Charley Humez's mistakes and upset 2-1 favored Camello (Chubby) Costa in a television 10-rounder between featherweight contenders tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The baby-faced, 25-year-old Parisian watched Humez, the European middleweight champion, take two rounds, to warm up against Tiger Jones in the Garden last Friday night. The slow gela-way cost the rallying Humez the split decision by one point.

"I will be out punching from the opening bell," vowed Hamia. "I realize here the first round counts
 as much as the last in the scoring."

Unbeaten in his last nine, Hamia has a 23-1-1 record.

Catching and tagging Costa solidly is a major task. The fleet-footed, 21-year-old Brooklynite, skips around on nimble legs, moving in and out on his opponent.

Costa, the No. 3 contender, has a 29-2-4 record.

NBC will broadcast and telecast
 at 9 p. m., CST.

Sports Writer
 Gayle Talbot
 Dies at 54

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Gayle Talbot,
 for 28 years an Associated Press sports writer and newsman, died last night of a heart attack. He was 54.

Talbot, best known for his colorful sports writing and author of the column "Sports Roundup" since 1927, suffered an earlier attack last August. However, he had recovered sufficiently to take a semi-vacation in Florida, where he resumed writing.

The fatal attack came in the lobby of a Tampa hotel where he was chatting with friends before dinner. He died enroute to a hospital.

He is survived by his widow,
 the former Ruth Reavy of London, England, and two daughters,
 Brenda, 16, and Margaret, 14.
 Mrs. Talbot was with her husband at the time of his death.

Will Use Gags to Tag afterfowl

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Fish and Wildlife Service announced today that dogs — trained retrievers — will be used to help catch waterfowl for banding this summer in Canada and the Northern United States prairies.

The fowl are released after being marked with leg bands which help the service study breeding and migration habits.

Director John L. Farley said this marks the first time the service has planned to use special dog crews.

"Experimental use of dogs has proven that they are more economical than other techniques for capturing immature birds," Farley said.

The dogs will be used primarily on young Mallards, because of the tendency of that bird to leave the water when frightened and scurry to any available brush cover. Other types of fowl are trapped by use of nets.

Between 27,000 and 30,000 birds
 usually are banded each year.

Snead Believes
 He Can Win

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Sam Snead, at 48 an old soldier in the mood to "fade away" and thinks he'll prove it in next week's Masters tournament at Augusta, Ga.

"Any idea he may be 'over the hill' brings only a snort of impatience from the famed slammer."

"Why, I wouldn't be taking that great long trip to Augusta if I didn't think I could win," the slammer says. "After all, I've won that tournament three times already and that course is just my type of layout."

Snead won the Masters in 1949, 1952 and 1954. During the past winter he played in only two tournaments, winning the Miami Open in December and placing second in the Seminole pro-amateur event.

"Not bad for just two tournaments, huh?" the slammer asks,
 and answers his own question:
 "I'll say it wasn't bad."

Although labor pneumonia used to kill in five patients who contracted it, the use of antibiotics has drastically reduced pneumonia death rates.

Mrs. Ollie McCanic left Thursday
 March 29 for San Diego, Calif., where she will join her husband,
 Mr. Homer McCanic, for an indefinite stay.

Funeral Service for Mr. Grant

Annual Derby to Be Run Saturday at Oaklawn

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — Thirteen top 3-year-olds including two who originally were nominated for the Arkansas Derby, were entered today in the $4,000 Fleet Handicap
 at Oaklawn Park.

The Derby nominees, Brazos Rose and Navarette, both are owned by the Reynolds Brothers stable, and will run as an entry.
 Their presence in the handicap means that highly regarded Tim Top probably will carry the Reynolds colors alone in the big $10,- 000 added derby tomorrow.

Two other entries also were entered in today's feature. Henry Forrest's Judge Ray K. and H. H.
 Mundy's Preen were paired, and Clifford Moores named Latexia and Golden Bear for the 5 1/2-furlong test.

Topweight of 118 pounds was assigned to H. R. Low's Akboy.
 Completing the field were R. P.
 Hickman's High Rich, Clyde Jennings' Court Dowd, Rothmore Farm's Nippersink, Mrs. H. D.
 Morgan's Man of Quest, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Van Berg's Barrington
 and Mrs. Joe Zitzik's Mahanassas, a nominee for the Kentucky Derby.

Brazos Rose, a filly, has the best Oaklawn record, two victories and a second for three starts. Akboy, Mahanassas, Preen, Court Dowd and Judge Ray K.
 Each have scored once.

The race marked Barrington's debut as a 3-year-old, but he may draw strong support because of his excellent record as a juvenile when he won six races in fast company. Golden Admiral also is a maiden, but he finished in the money in several rich stake events at Chicago as a 2-year-old.

Black Hand dealt the first defeats of the Oaklawn meeting to a pair of seasoned campaigners in yesterday's $3,000 feature. The 4-year-old gelding, owned by Carl Craig, charged through the stretch to edge Lefty James by a head.

Timely Tip, the favorite, was a distant third, while Pea-a-Pea ran fourth.

Both Lefty James and Pea-a-Pea took their first losses of the season, against two victories each. It was the third disappointing performance for Timely Tip, winner of the 1934 Arkansas Derby.

Black Hand, with Robert Ford in the jockey, trailed badly as the first three furlongs as the front-running Lefty James set a terrific pace. At the head of the stretch, Lefty James pined his lead to three lengths. But Black Hand swung to the outside and charged from behind to pass the pacesetter in the final sixteenth.

The winner was timed in 1:11
 flat for the six furlongs, and paid $6.40, $4.40 and $3.

Jockey John Delahoussaye of New Orleans drew a 10-day suspension yesterday, effective today, for crowding during his winning ride aboard Lefty Sub in the $5,000
 Oaklawn Preview Wednesday.

Oaklawn closes its season Saturday, but the suspension will prevent Delahoussaye from riding at any track until April 11.

J. Sweeney Grant, general manager of Oaklawn, announced yesterday that the minimum claiming price for races here next year will be increased from $1,750 to $2,000.

Many Program
 Changes Next Season on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Some program changes affecting almost every night of the week are in the works for next season on CBS-TV.

Trade reports indicate that there are big programs of an hour or longer. But most are half-hour shows, on film, the creations of Hollywood.

The most ambitious undertaking will be Playhouse 90, a 90-minute weekly dramatic show to be produced by Martin Manlius. Variety, the weekly trade journal of show business, says this is slated for 9:30 p. m. (Eastern Time) Thursday evenings and will include eight film entries to be made by Columbia Pictures. CBS has not commented on details.

One of the hour shows will be called The Big Record with format, time and other details a big secret. Actually the idea for this program was given a show-casing
 several weeks ago when Shower of Stars presented "The Golden Record," a program in which stars who had sold more than a million recordings of specific songs did their stuff. The public liked it — and so, apparently, does CBS now.

The other weekly hour program, announced previously, will be a Herb Shriner variety show. This may move into a Friday night spot, with the hope of giving that currently rather dead evening a shot in the arm.

Here are some of the half-hour film programs reported in the works:

A series on air power, a weekly cartoon series, a series about helicopter pilots, one on the use of medicine in solving crimes, a Perry Mason series based on the stories of Erle Stanley Gardner, a mystery series, a series on activities of the Chicago Fire Department, at least three new situation comedies. All of these are on film and nearly all will originate in Hollywood.

GOOD REASON
DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — Police said a woman sentenced to a three-year prison term yesterday for swindling used an alias in her operation for good reason.

Her name was Mrs. Janice Roy Swindle.

ELECTED
WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles G.
 Morehead of Arkansas Tech College has been named president-elect of the National Association of Guidance Supervisors and Counselors Trainers. He will take office next year.

Quotations From Noted Sources

By United Press
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., on the proposed U. N. investigative mission to Palestine by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.
"There are no hidden meanings in this, and if you search from now until doomsday with a magnifying glass the only purpose you will find is to prevent war."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — President J. Millard Smith of Memphis State College on Negro registration.
"There will be no trouble if Negroes enter for educational purposes but I can't predict what will occur if they enter just to break the color line."

WASHINGTON — Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) on possibility of a veto on the farm bill by President Eisenhower.
"If he doesn't (sign the farm bill), he had better get ready to go back to making his own living at Gettysburg under existing farm law."

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Sen. Estes Kefauver to a lady sitting on a bus stop bench:
"I'm a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination and I want you to help me."

He is not here. The Cross and the Tomb have both been snatched from their association with death. They have been transformed by love and self-giving. DARK FRIDAY becomes GOOD FRIDAY with the revealing of Heavenly love. Christmas is sanctified in Easter. He lives and we, too, shall live, in the measure in which we learn to kiss the Cross, our cross as well as His. His journey to Golgotha transfigured the cross forever, TURNING A SYMBOL OF SUFFERING INTO A SYMBOL OF TRIUMPHANT LIFE. It is Easter.
